"We shall neither fail nor falter; we shall not weaken or tire...gives us the tools and we will finish the job." – Winston Churchill

December has not only brought us closer to the end of the year it has also brought some cooler weather finally! I nice break to the 80 and 90 degree weather we have been dealing with lately. We cannot fully express how incredibly proud we have been of World Technical Services, Inc. this past year. We have met and surpassed our own expectations and we could not have done it without all of you. Give yourselves a hand! Let's finish out this month with a bang and go into 2010 with the same momentum that has carried us this year. Happy Holidays form everyone in the office!

Message from the CEO

Greetings from San Antonio,

This has been quite a year. We have had so much growth this year it is hard to know where to start. We have gained many major contracts in San Antonio, Amarillo and have regained one of our past contracts in Harlingen. I keep thinking our good fortune in getting new contracts may run out but there are new offers on my desk nearly every day. I hope all of you can see what an amazing time this is to be a part of World Technical Services. I have to offer my concern and well wishes to everyone at Fort Hood. I am glad none of our employees or your families were directly affected by that tragedy. I also want to welcome all the new employees that we have gotten all over the state. I hope all of you appreciate our early payroll payment for Thanksgiving. We will be doing the same thing before Christmas in hopes of all of you having a happy holiday season. So get your payrolls in early. Thank you for the hard work and look for a renewed effort from our office in San Antonio to provide you with stellar support to make all of your jobs easier, which in turn improves our customer satisfaction. Happy Holidays!
Best Regards,

Alan E. Warrick II

Contract Highlights: Ft. Hood

We would like to recognize our Ft. Hood contract as our standout contract for the month of December. There were a few deficiencies reported but through the hard work of team leaders and staff working weekends and keeping all eyes open all issues have been cleared. Also, we would like to send our condolences to all the families that lost loved ones in the shooting.

Senate bolsters preventive care for women

Thu Dec 3, 2009 2:26pm EST

By John Whitesides

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - The Senate backed a plan on Thursday to make it easier for women to get preventive health services such as mammograms as it cast its first votes on a sweeping healthcare overhaul.

On the fourth day of a sometimes bitter debate, the Senate voted 61-39 for an amendment to improve access to women's screenings for diseases like cancer and diabetes by eliminating insurance co-pays and deductibles for them.

The move follows last month's controversy over federal task force recommendations that women delay regular mammograms for breast cancer and from a doctor's group that women delay pap smears for cervical cancer.

On a 59-41 vote, the Senate rejected a companion Republican amendment to ensure the task force recommendations could be ignored, which Democrats said was "too tepid" and would not remove cost barriers to screenings.

The votes broke a two-day Senate stalemate that had stalled progress on the healthcare reform bill, which is President Barack Obama's top domestic priority. On Wednesday night, party leaders finally agreed on a timeline for the votes.

Senate Democratic leaders have vowed to pass the healthcare bill by the end of December but Republicans want to prolong the debate into the 2010 campaign season in hopes public opposition to the plan will grow.

The Senate bill is designed to rein in costs, expand coverage to about 30 million uninsured Americans and halt insurance practices such as denying coverage to those with pre-existing medical conditions.

National polls show opinion is divided on the overhaul. A Thomson Reuters poll on Thursday found most Americans back a government-run public insurance option in the plan but doubt if the bill will improve their healthcare in the short-term.

The Senate bill would require everyone to have insurance, provide federal subsidies to help them pay for coverage and create a government-run insurance option to compete with private industry.

Outstanding Employee(s) of the Month

World Technical Services, Inc. would like to recognize June Burrow as our Outstanding Employee of the Month for the month of December. June is one of our Day Porters at our Ft. Hood contract and she was recognized by the base Commanding Lieutenant General for "providing excellence to customers in the III Corps Custodial Office". Thanks for your hard work and dedication!
